Fund commentary

- Positive contributors to the performance over the month were the portfolio's copper holdings, Teck Resources, Freeport-McMoRan and Grupo Mexico. European banking positions ING Groep, CaixaBank and AIB Group Plc were also substantial contributors.
- Given the strength displayed across equity market globally in March there were limited detractors to performance. Siemens AG being the largest detractor with its share price pulling back modestly after recent gains.
- No new positions were initiated through the month however existing positions in Newmont, Wynn Resorts (together with Wynn Macau) and Neinor Homes were all increased.
- The Fund exited its position in Flutter Entertainment after its share price reached a 12-month high, and also reduced Airbus. While we remain strong believers in the Flutter business longer term, recent share price strength saw valuation reach our target levels. Flutter's performance in recent months had been supported by its US listing and strong 2023 results announcements which drove upgrades to consensus estimates.
- The long equity position at month's end closed at 101%, with a net equity position of 93%.
