Fund commentary

The Fund broadly preserved capital during a month in which the conflict in the Middle East saw volatility flow through risk markets.

The Reserve Bank of Australia (RBA) raised the official cash rate to 4.10%, citing concerns about higher inflation driven in part by the rising petrol prices. Bond markets are pricing in multiple further interest rate increases this year.

Yields on Australian five-year government bonds increased ~0.50% during March and at one point, were yielding just under 5%. At these levels, we increased the Fund's fixed interest rate exposure.

Yield premiums on corporate bonds also increased materially, as few industries are immune from the knock-on effects of rising oil prices. The Fund began the month in a strong position to take advantage of the volatility and used the meaningfully higher bonds yields to increase its invested position. New corporate bonds added include SA Power Networks, the monopoly owner of South Australia's electricity distribution network, and Telstra, the leading Australian telecommunications company. These investments, along with a number of others, were made at yields of 5% to 6%.

The Fund remains well positioned to take advantage of further volatility, and we believe current market conditions represent a compelling opportunity in fixed income markets, relative to the past decade.
